City Leadership

The City of Auburn operates under a Council-Manager form of government, in fact Auburn was the first city in Maine to adopt this form of government in 1917. The city council is comprised of the mayor and seven councilors. The mayor is elected by a majority of voters and serves a two-year term. The city's five voting wards each elect one councilor to represent their ward, and two at-large members are elected citywide. All serve two-year terms.

The city manager is the chief executive officer of the city, executing policy set by the mayor and council. The manager prepares/administers the annual budget, directs day-to-day operations, develops/administers policies and procedures, recommends policies and programs to the council, represents the city on boards, committees, organizations, and commissions, and much more.
